

Tales from the Thai Burma Border

Play a part in telling the tales and spreading the stories!

The ongoing civil war inside Burma has caused countless numbers of refugees to flee to Thailand in search of safety and a stable home for themselves and their families.

Over one hundred thousand Burmese Migrants are thought to be living and working along the Thai-Burma border; often under poor conditions for little return.

It is not just the migrants themselves that are vulnerable, but also their children, who are exposed to insufficient healthcare, clean water, food and the education necessary for them to not only survive; but to flourish.

Through the determined efforts of grassroots Burmese Migrant Groups and other aid agencies many community based Burmese Migrant Schools have been formed; providing underprivileged children with access to basic education.

But even with this support, more is needed to ensure that every child has the opportunity to attend school and that this education is maintained, forming the foundation of a brighter future for them.

All the children on these postcards were photographed at Burmese migrant schools surrounding Mae Sot.

By purchasing a pack of these postcards you are not only supporting migrant education; but when sending them to friends and family, you are helping us spread the stories of these children throughout the world.

We have created two sets of postcards with five images per set, and all profits go towards supporting Burmese migrant schools in Mae Sot, Thailand.
